REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 1.—Judge H. H. Kilpatrick of Presidio County was in the city to-day and reported that the engineers were in the field surveying the route for the Kansas City, Mexican and Orient Raijroad, which is to run from Kansas City to Topolobampo, Mexico, on the Pacific Coast side of the sister Republic.

In connection with this proposed line it is stated that the managers of the Rio Grande, Sierra Madre and Pacific road, which is now being operated 112 miles south of El Paso, into Mexico, realizing the advantages of a terminus at the port of Topolobampo on the Pacific Coast, have announced their intention of extending to that point, and have their surveying corps in the field at work at present. road, which is to run from Kansas City to

Western Immigrant Traffic

Western Immigrant Traffle.

No agreement as to the future division of immigrant traffle was reached at the conference between Traffle Manager Kerr of the Canadian Pacific and passenger officials of the Western lines in the immigrant agreement. The Canadian Pacific wants a share of the immigrant traffic out of Atlantic ports in the United States, but does not want to give them a share of the traffic from Canadian ports. The Western roads want to divide the business of all ports or none. An agreement will not be effected until after the arbitrator chosen by the presidents of the interested roads decides whether the Canadian Pacific, under the pooling agreement, is entitled to certain traffic representing about $115,000. The Western roads took the business and do not want to divide the profits with the Canadian profits with the Canadian traffic representing about $115,000. want to divide the profits with the Can-

The Baltimore and Ohio has created a new office, that of excursion manager, and has appointed George De Haven to fill it, his headquarters being in Baltimore. Mr. De Haven a few years ago became known through his eccentric ways of advertising. He was at that time the general passenger agent of the Film and Pere Marquette Railroud, and it was his custom to send out great baies of advertising matter. Universally on the bottom would be the sentence in flaming red letters: "Michigan is a great State." Mr. De Haven's territory will extend over all of the lines of the B. & O. system. Speculation as to C. M. Hays's Successor-Rates to Voters-Immigrant Traffic-Appointments-Notes.

New York, Nov. 1.-Speaking of the new fficial freight classification issued by the Southern Classification Committee, J. M. Langley of the New York Merchants' As-"We have made a careful examination of this new schedule and cannot find that it contains any material concessions to shippers. Unfortunately the members of the Southern Classification Committee have ignored the protests filed by the shippers some time ago. "In making up this schedule, which the Southern Committee is now giving to the public, it has adhered to the radical changes made last winter, with the exception of a few minor alterations. Owing to the unsat-isfactory condition of this whole matter in the South, we had decided some time ago to take the entire subject before the Inter-state Commerce Commission, in an action to be brought against some one of the roads in the South, using this higher rate, and, therefore, we claim, discriminative sched-ule. We laid the whole matter before our counsel, who advised us that we had a good cause of action. We delayed action, pending the making up of this new schedule. Now that the new schedule is found not to have granted concessions to shippers, we will proceed along the lines originally laid down."

In connection with the above the Cleveland Lender has this to say:

"The latest report has it that the successor to Mr. Hays will be Joseph Ramsey Jr., at present the vice president and general manager of the Wabash Railroad. This report comes from one who claims to have been informed that, before resigning his position, Mr. Hays suggested Mr. Ramsey has been mentioned at various times in connection with important Canadian positions, so that he is not altogether an unknown man in that territory. This story comes from the same source that predicted the selection of Mr. Hays as the president of the Southern Pacific, which judgment proved to be pretty sound.

ECKELS SAYS TRUSTS BENEFIT THE PUBLIC.

New York Merchants to Proceed Ex-Comptroller of the Currency, Speaking at Music Hall, Defends Combinations of Capital.

Individual Obtains Staple Articles Cheaper as a Result of Consolidations, So Mr. Eckels Contends-Effect on Labor.

At the Music Hall last night James H. Eckels, former Comptroller of the Currency, declared trusts, or vast aggregations of capital, were good things for the country. His utterances on this line were about as strong as language would permit, and he dwelt at some length upon this issue of the campaign. He defended banks and other money-loaning corporations.

Mr. Eckels was introduced by F. W. Lehmann, who, previous to the speaker's arrival, made a short address, indorsing the administration of McKinley. The Music Hall was fairly well filled when Mr. Eckels

Mr. Eckels launched into a denunciation of William J. Bryan in speaking of the question of trusts. He said he did not know of a public man who had achieved success who would defend illegal combinations of capital, but that he did know of many who would defend illegal combinations of capital, but that he did know of many men of wide business experience, many of prominence in the student world of political life, who not only approved of large aggregations of capital, but were ready to defend them. Continuing, he said:

"It is no new thing in the civilization of the world to have combinations of interests for a commen purpose, and for a common welfare. Such combinations are but the concentration of capital or labor, or capital and labor for the mutual advancement of all. In political life it takes the form of governments in communities. In the larger use of money it assumes the form of banking systems. In the world of transportation there are the great railway and steamship lines, and in the industrial world we have the combinations which deal with manufacturing and mining.

Been Selected.

In connection with the report sent out from Montreal that F. H. McGuigan would succeed Charles M. Hays on the Grand Trunk, the New York Times has this to say:

"F. H. McGuigan, at present general superintendent of the Grand Trunk Rallway, will be the next general manager of that system, succeeding Charles M. Hays, win resigned to necept the presidency of the Southern Pacific Company. This statement is made one the highest authority. On the same authority it may be stated that the name of E. V. St. John, vice president of the Scabbard Air Line, was not considered by the controlling interests as a possible successor to Mr. Hays although he was proposed by certain of the stockholders.

"When Mr. Hays sent in his resignation he was requested to recommend a successor, with the understanding that whoover he named would be accepted by the board. Mr. Hays thereupon recommended Mr. McGuigan, and the latter was accordingly selected. stocks and bonds in such corporations. There has been with the improvement in facilities and management, and cheapening of traffic rates in individual transactions, a vast increase in the volume of railway business, the employment of more labor, and the appropriate of the whole results.

capital in a single line this country has been enabled to compete successfully with the foreigner in every line of manufacture. The foreigners heretofore have had the large capital and the cheapened labor. The American now has that capital, and without in anywise decreasing the warge of the laboring man he has been enabled through American enterprise and ability to secure the world's market, a thing attested by the fact that the exports of this country in excess of the imports are now beyond anything the world has ever seen. The American manufacturer now has the markets of the world for his products. The American manufacturer now has the markets of the world for his products. The American laborer is now doing the labor for the world. The American plant and factory and furnace to-day constitute the workshops of the world. And what has been the effect upon labor?

"Who dares assert that within these two

the effect upon labor?

"Who dares assert that within these two years labor has had less employment, has received les wages, has been less presperous, or has been less well-treated than before these combinations arose—where there were many managements, but where no single one was large enough to assume and command importance in the industrial enterprises of the world? Their outcome in every instance, where safety and honesty of management intervene, will show that the labor cost will not be reduced; the price to the consumer will not be increased, but, instead, there will be an enlarging of the total volume of business, making the profit less on the individual article, that thereby consumption may be increased, but increasing the aggregate profit only through the increased use. And what does the increased use mean to the laborer? It means that more of the manufactured articles must be made, and, consequently, more labor be employed."
